Gay and Lesbian Liberation of Waterloo

This organization has been in existence at the University of Waterloo for 25 years, and works to bring gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgendered members of the Kitchener-Waterloo community together. GLOW provides phonenumber assistance and information, as well as working to promote equality for les/bi/gay/trans people everywhere.

University of Waterloo Federation of Students

The University of Waterloo Federation of Students works to empower students first and foremost. The Federation owns and operates several businesses and provides services such as GLOW, the Womyn's Centre, the Student Issues Resource Centre, peer counselling, academic and social advocacy, and opportunities to be involved in clubs.

Please take advantage of this opportunity by registering before Sept. 15, using the form inside. If you require directions to the University of Waterloo campus, we will be happy to provide them.

Inside/Out

Inside/Out was founded in 1993 by Louise Karch and Leslie Davis. Both are lesbians committed to providing educational opportunities for personal and professional growth which support the development of personal meaning and social change.

Inside: Leslie Davis, M.Ed.

I am dedicated to providing the gay, lesbian and bisexual communities with the resources and support for both personal and political change while acknowledging the deeper need for creating spiritual meaning. I am a feminist therapist and educator with many years experience facilitating personal change. My focus has been to help people look inside themselves to explore how the outside world has determined their inner truth. I am definitely the IN of Inside/Out!

Out: Louise Karch, M.Ed.

I am the OUT of Inside/Out! As an educator, writer, activist, and performer, I am honoured to be able to offer workshops for the communities of which I am a part. I have developed and delivered workshops for community groups, social service agencies, and corporations. After a speech I gave at Take Back the Night, The London Free Press described me as a "cheerleader, feminist, lesbian", which pretty well sums it up.

Special Guest: Janet Money

A fulltime journalist since 1982, I have been freelancing as a writer and editor for five years. As one of the few out lesbians in mainstream media in Canada, I have written about our communities as well as health matters, sports and politics. My publication credits include The Globe and Mail, The London Free Press, Xtra and London Magazine and I am currently the editor of The Pink Paper, the bimonthly community newspaper in London, Ont. I have worked with many London-based organizations on media relations including the AIDS Committee of London, the Relationship Recognition Task Force, the Women's Monument Committee and the London Lesbian Film Festival. My commitment is to making sure our stories are not only told, but also heard.
