Chuck Samuels

Chuck Samuels work explores the question of voyeurism related to the photographic image. In his suite "Before the Camera" he appropriates 12 photographs of naked women by male photographers and reverses the sexual roles of the original images by replacing the female with a male model. By maintaining the charged erotic value of the original the resulting subversive images play with the question of gender roles in the viewer's perception of gender and sexuality.

He has exhibited widely including major solo shows at the Australian Centre for Photography, National Gallery of Canada, Centro di Ausoni, Rome, International Museum of Photography, USA, La Grand Palais, Paris. He is the head of the photography department at Concordia University.
